Strath Halladale's location offers access to some of the freshest and finest local produce in Scotland. This quality produce is far too often overlooked and in many cases destined mainly for the continental markets. It has therefore been my inspiration to cook in a traditional but contemporary manner producing dishes using locally sourced seasonal produce wherever possible.

Please feel free to call for a light hearted gastronomic discussion regarding your culinary requirements, desires and above all your tastes. Packages and prices are tailored to individual requirements.
